NEW SERIES OF RTÉ ONE'S 'AT YOUR SERVICE' LOOKING FOR HOSPITALITY BUSINESSES TO TAKE PART

Renowned hoteliers John and Francis Brennan are searching for hospitality and tourist businesses to take part in the newest series of 'At Your Service' for RTÉ One.

John and Francis want to pass on their knowledge and understanding of the hospitality world and are looking for businesses who are ready to take their facilities to the next level and develop their product. They are seeking a range of hospitality businesses, from brand new start-ups to properties with ambitious expansion plans.

John and Francis are searching for a variety of businesses to apply, spanning everything from hotels, guesthouses, B&Bs, bars and restaurants, historic houses, hostels, farm diversification projects to caravan sites. Francis Brennan says; "Any type of hospitality-based project will be considered, as long as they will benefit from our advice."

Maggi Gibson, Executive Producer says, "This new series is a wonderful opportunity for hospitality owners to work with John and Francis to explore new approaches, systems and strategies to deliver a quality service for their customers. We're planning to produce four one-hour programmes, following a different business in each episode."

We are particularly looking for projects beginning in autumn 2023, with a view to opening/launching in Spring/Summer 2024. If you are the owner or manager of a hospitality business in Ireland and would like to get involved with this once in a lifetime opportunity Waddell Media would love to hear from you. Please contact Maggi Gibson, maggi@waddellmedia.com or Orla Cumming, orla@waddellmedia.com to find out more.
